Railways to run its first hydrogen train, says Minister

Exim News Service
NEW DELHI, Dec. 14
INDIAN Railways has taken up a state-of-the-art project for running its first hydrogen train, on a pilot basis, as per specifications framed by the Research, Design & Standards Organisation (RDSO) to demonstrate the use of hydrogen-powered train technology in Railways, said Mr Ashwini Vaishnaw, Union Minister for Railways, Information & Broadcasting and Electronics & Information Technology, in a written reply to a question in Lok Sabha. The Minister said that the manufacturing of the hydrogen train-set has been completed. It is currently the world's longest (10 coaches) and most powerful (2,400 kW) hydrogen train-set on a broad-gauge platform.

It comprises two Driving Power Cars (DPCs) rated at 1,200 kW each, totalling 2,400 kW, along with eight coaches. The Minister highlighted that one of the crucial features of this train is zero CO2 emissions; the only emission is water vapour, as per a report.

VLCC market seen strong through 2026-28: CMES

Exim News Service
SHANGHAI, Dec. 14
CHINA Merchants Energy Shipping (CMES) expects the global supertanker market to remain strong through 2026 and potentially into 2027-28, supported by a constrained supply of modern compliant tankers and a healthy demand outlook, the Secretary of its Board of Directors, Mr Kong Kang, said during an investor last week. The Shanghai-listed company, one of Asia's largest VLCC operators, expressed a bullish outlook, anticipating that structural supply-demand tightness will support the VLCC market for several years. CMES said it expects the VLCC freight mid-point in 2026 to exceed that of 2025, while the outlook for 2027 remains uncertain but is unlikely to worsen given the continued growth in long-haul flows and global refinery capacity constraints.
VLCC freight on the Persian Gulf-China route reached an all-time high of w143 on Nov. 25, according to Platts assessments from S&P Global Energy, as per a report.

The digital backbone of Indian logistics: How real-time container tracking is reshaping trade efficiency

By Vaibhav Singh, Program Manager, NLDS

INDIA'S logistics has experienced a substantial evolution since the start of the 1991 economic reforms. From the development of newer types of locations for storing freight, such as container freight stations, dry ports, and last mile finishes (last legs), it is apparent that Indian logistics has gained a great deal of efficiency with the advent of technology. The traditional logistics methods of utilising paper logs, manual operations and disjointed systems for the management of a business have all lost relevance. Today, logistics is predominantly based upon the use of real-time monitoring (via GPS and similar technologies), the use of integrated platforms for real-time sharing of data, and employing advanced analytical tools. The establishment of a real-time container tracking system managed by the NLDS and the associated LDB system has played a key role in all these advancements. These developments will enhance the technology of logistics within India, while at the same time creating the groundwork to improve the global competitiveness of trade within the country.

When visibility was an informed guess - The legacy of friction

In the past, container tracking in India, before the era of digitally integrated systems, was very much a 'patchwork' system; all players in the supply chain (importers/exporters, shipping lines, terminal operators and transport companies) were each operating from isolated silos that did not communicate with each other. As a result, there were significant unintended consequences:

★ Unpredictable lead times led to a lack of confidence from buyers (exporters had to factor in a buffer into their pricing).

★ Costs of storage were driven up due to lost time (demurrage/detention charges) when containers remained in terminal yards longer than expected.

★ Underutilised assets and idle fleet time inflated logistics costs.

★ The cumulative effect: India lost trade competitiveness at a time when global supply chains prized speed and reliability.

In earlier public discourse, logistics expenditures in India were pegged at 13-14% of GDP. But recent work offers a more precise picture: the 2023-24 NCAER-DPIIT "Assessment of Logistics Cost" estimates logistics now at 7.97% of GDP and 9.09% of non-services output. This compression is encouraging, but the ambition now is to push closer to global benchmarks (~6 %) over time.

Digital Public Infrastructure: From promise to platform

The government's interventions, Ease of Doing Business, Digital India, and the PM Gati Shakti Masterplan, have nudged logistics into the digital Turn to page 19

Global trade to exceed

costs and uneven global demand slowed momentum.

Between July and September, global trade grew 2.5% compared with the previous three months. Goods rose nearly 2%, services 4%. Growth is expected to continue in the year's final quarter, though at a slower pace: 0.5% for goods and 2% for services. If projections hold, goods would add about $1.5 trillion to this year's total and services $750 billion, consistent with an overall 7% annual increase.

A key shift is unfolding on prices. After two quarters in which trade values rose partly because goods became more expensive, prices are now expected to drop. As a result, the increase in global trade at the end of 2025 comes from higher volumes - the actual quantity of goods shipped - rather than from price increases. This points to stable demand even as inflation eases.

East Asia, Africa and South-South trade lead gains

East Asia recorded the strongest export growth over the past year (9%), supported by a 10% surge in intra-regional trade. Africa also performed strongly, with imports up 10% and exports 6%. South-South trade expanded around 8%, reflecting deepening economic ties among developing economies.

Among individual economies, China and the Republic of Korea stood out in East Asia, while Brazil and South Africa were key drivers in South America and Africa. India and China also posted some of the strongest growth in services exports, underscoring the growing weight of emerging economies in global trade.

Manufacturing strong but autos weak

Manufacturing grew 10% over the year, led by electronics (14%) linked to AI-related demand. Agriculture expanded sharply in the third quarter, with cereals and fruit-and-vegetable exports each rising 11%. Automotive trade fell 4%, while fossil-fuel trade declined amid lower prices.

A year of recovery, but risks ahead

Trade in 2025 consistently outpaced global economic growth, reversing the stagnation of 2023-2024. Yet imbalances remain elevated, and friendshoring and nearshoring - trade shifting towards politically aligned or geographically closer partners - strengthened again, reshaping trade patterns.

Looking to 2026, UNCTAD expects weaker growth as slower global activity, rising debt, higher trade costs and persistent uncertainty weigh on performance, it said in an analysis.

Charter market remained strong in 2025

Commercially idle tonnage at record lows

Exim News Service
SINGAPORE, Dec. 14

THE container charter market is closing 2025 on a clearly bullish note. Demand remains strong across all vessel sizes, with charter rates holding at very healthy levels and showing little sign of softening, as per an analysis by Alphaliner.

It explained:

With no meaningful slowdown expected into year-end, 2025 is shaping up as the strongest year the charter market has seen outside of the post-COVID cargo boom.

This performance comes despite a challenging backdrop. US tariffs, port fees, Middle East tensions, the war in Ukraine, falling freight rates and uninterrupted newbuilding deliveries all tested market resilience.

Cape of Good Hope diversions proved a key support factor. Longer voyages between Asia and the Atlantic basin absorbed capacity and helped keep otherwise surplus tonnage employed.

Cargo volumes also exceeded expectations, particularly on North-South and regional trades, further limiting overcapacity risks.

Tonnage availability stayed extremely tight throughout the year. Alphaliner currently counts just two unemployed container ships worldwide, while commercially idle tonnage remains at record lows.

Looking ahead, 2026 is expected to bring a broad return of container traffic through the Suez Canal.

Short-term disruption could temporarily support demand. Over the longer term, shorter sailing distances combined with 1.4 Mteu of new deliveries may push the market toward oversupply.

Without another year of strong cargo growth, both freight and charter rates could come under sustained pressure.

India's GDP growth seen at 6.7 pc in FY26: OECD

Exim News Service

PARIS, Dec. 14

THE Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has maintained India's economic growth steady at 6.7% in FY26 in its latest economic outlook, keeping it as one of the fastest-growing economies. Growth in the country is expected to be supported by rising real incomes, monetary policy easing and strong public capital expenditure, it said.

Cascaded capacity reaches secondary trades in 2025

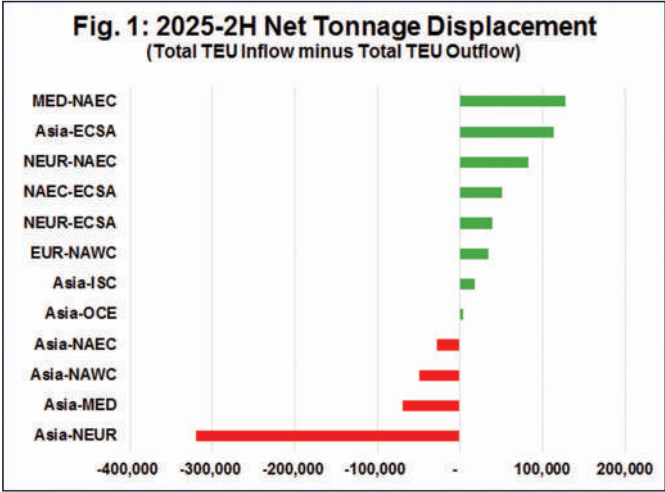

Exim News Service

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 14

IN issue 744 of the Sea-Intelligence Sunday Spotlight, it analysed the displacement of global vessel capacity, tracking over 16,000 vessel transfers across 2024 and 2025. The data indicates that the “Cascading Effect” – where tonnage shifts from primary to secondary trade lanes – has entered a distinct new phase in 2025-2H. While 2024 was characterised by an injection of capacity into Asia-Europe to manage the Red Sea crisis, current data shows that these trades have reached saturation, pushing excess tonnage into secondary trade lanes.

Figure 1 illustrates the net displacement of tonnage in 2025-2H. This is the total cascaded capacity received by a trade lane minus the total capacity it cascaded down to other trade lanes (simply, inflow minus outflow of cascaded capacity).

The data highlights a structural shift in the Asia-Mediterranean trade lane. Previously a primary absorber of displaced Asia-North Europe capacity in 2024, this trade lane is now actively cascading tonnage out to other lanes. The Mediterranean-North America East Coast trade lane emerged as the top net gainer in 2025-2H, absorbing a net +127,686 TEU of cascaded capacity. This number was driven by +178,189 TEU of cascaded capacity from Asia-Mediterranean, with a transfer of 11 vessels of 14,000-15,000 TEU.

Similarly, the Asia-East Coast South America trade lane became the second-largest net gainer of cascaded capacity, absorbing a net +112,998 TEU, primarily consisting of mid-sized vessels of 8,000-14,000 TEU, that have been cycled out of the main East-West trade lanes. The data shows this as a permanent structural change, as 97% of the vessels cascaded to Asia-East Coast South America in this period did not redeploy back to their previous trade lanes. This indicates that the capacity surplus originally triggered by the Red Sea crisis is now effectively saturating the peripheral trades of the global network, as per Sea-Intelligence.

MOL PLUS makes first investment in Indian venture capital fund

Aims to accelerate business creation with start-ups in the Indian market and promote development of the India-Japan corridor

Exim News Service

TOKYO, Dec. 14

MOL PLUS CO., Ltd, the corporate venture capital arm of Mitsui O.S.K. Lines (MOL), has announced its decision to invest in Theia Ventures Fund 1 which is managed by Theia Ventures LLP. This represents MOL PLUS’ first investment in an Indian venture capital fund.

India’s start-up market continues to grow rapidly. By the end of 2024, it had surpassed 157,000 companies, with about 70 unicorn companies (valuation of USD 1 billion or more), making it the third largest start-up market in the world after the United States and China. India is one of the MOL Group’s priority regions, and in addition to shipping and logistics, the MOL Group is working to expand its business into next-generation energy, real estate and other non-shipping businesses. MOL PLUS established its India desk in November 2024 and is now fully engaged in networking with local venture capitalists and start-up companies.

Theia Ventures Fund 1 invests exclusively in start-ups in India, with a focus on the energy transition, deeptech, material science and advanced manufacturing fields. The MOL Group’s strong affinity with the fund’s areas of focus was also a deciding factor in its decision to make it an investment partner. This investment will allow MOL PLUS to accelerate business creation with start-ups in the Indian market, and continue to promote the development of the India-Japan corridor.

“We are proud to be the first Indian venture capital fund partner for MOL PLUS. Their expertise in blue economy, environment and deeptech, both from a strategic perspective through the group entity as well as through their investment in global technology companies, will be hugely beneficial for us to expand the scope of emission reductions across industry, supply chains, materials and mobility,” said Ms Priya Shah, Founder & Managing Partner, Theia Ventures.

“Since the establishment of MOL PLUS India Desk in November 2024, we have realised the appeal of the rapidly growing Indian market through 1on1 meetings with Indian start-ups.

At the same time, we have also learned that there is region-specific literacy in India regarding rapidly changing market trends, exit strategies and the role of shareholders. By exploring the market together with Theia Ventures, which is deeply rooted in and has a fundamental understanding of the local market, we hope to increase the possibility of business creation with start-ups,” said Takuya Sakamoto, CEO, MOL PLUS.

MOL PLUS continually works to generate synergistic effects based on start-up companies’ innovative ideas and technologies and MOL Group’s resources, aiming to create new businesses PLUS new value to the ocean shipping industry and society, highlighted a release.

Baltic Exchange Market Report (12 December 2025)

Capesize

THE market closed the week firmly on a softer footing, with sentiment deteriorating steadily across both basins despite pockets of activity. The BCI 5TC lost significant ground, sliding from $41,571 to end the week at $30,731, reflecting mounting rate pressure as the week progressed. The Pacific offered the only glimpses of resilience, with miners active on most days and occasional tender cargoes generating modest interest. However, this was not enough to offset declining C5 levels, which fell from the high $11s to mid-$10s, signalling clear weakness in the basin. The South Brazil and West Africa to China market also lost ground, with C3 values sliding from the mid-$25s at the start of the week to high $21s by Friday, even as cargo volumes improved and fresh demand emerged late in the week. The North Atlantic struggled throughout, with limited enquiry weighing heavily on both Transatlantic and fronthaul routes, which saw sharp swings but ultimately trended lower.

Panamax

The week began with soft sentiment and limited activity, particularly in the Atlantic, as charterers continued to test lower rate levels. Asia remained under pressure with growing prompt tonnage and cautious bidding, while period activity stayed subdued throughout. Mid-week, the North Atlantic showed some improvement, supported by tighter prompt supply and increased US East Coast coal export demand for December, alongside renewed talk of Capesize stems being split into Panamax cargoes. However, this firmness failed to offset persistent weakness in the Pacific, where ample vessel supply and thin cargo volumes drove further rate erosion across NoPac, Australia and Indonesia. Overall, market softness dominated, with the P5TC average steadily declining to close the week at $15,194.

Ultramax/Supramax

Overall sentiment remained weak, although some felt that there were pockets of activity giving a rather positional feel. Within the Atlantic, a split occurred whilst there still seemed to be demand for US Gulf Transatlantic business, fronthaul demand waned. Ultramax size seeing around $30,000 from US Gulf to the Continent. However, from the South Atlantic demand weakened, although a 56,000-dwt was heard to have fixed from North Brazil to the East Mediterranean in the low $20,000s. From Asia, also a rather negative week. Demand remained from the south although there was a good supply of tonnage to keep rates in check. A 52,000-dwt fixing delivery Singapore trip via Indonesia redelivery Cambodia in the low $13,000. However, further north demand slowed with little fresh impetus from the NoPac. A 63,000-dwt open North China fixing a trip to Bangladesh around $16,000. The Indian Ocean remained active, and rates remained relatively stable, a 63,000-dwt fixing delivery WC India fixing a trip via Saldanha Bay redelivery

South China in the $17,000s.

Handysize

It has been a challenging week for the sector, with both Atlantic and Pacific markets experiencing persistent downward pressure on rates. The Continent and Mediterranean remained subdued, with limited activity and levels edging slightly below those seen previously. A 33,000-dwt was reportedly fixed for a gypsum cargo from Garrucha to Rotterdam at $12,500. In the South Atlantic and US Gulf, market conditions generally held steady. Although tonnage has gradually increased, pockets of fresh demand have helped maintain current rate levels, with no meaningful rise in cargo volumes to push the market higher. Notable fixtures included a 38,000-dwt fixed from Rio de Janeiro to East Coast Mexico with pig iron at $21,500, and a 40,000-dwt fixed for a Southwest Pass to East Coast Mexico trip at $23,000. Across Asia, rates continued to soften with sentiment remaining weak. A 42,000-dwt open Singapore was fixed for a trip via Australia to Japan with salt at $12,000.

Clean

LR2

MEG LR2s remained stable this week. The TC1 75kt MEG/Japan index stood resolute at the WS155 mark or thereabouts. This kept the corresponding TCE around the $37,000-39,000/day Baltic description round-trip.

A voyage west on TC20 90kt MEG/UK-Continent also remained flat, up again this week at just over $4.0 million.

The TC15 80kt Mediterranean/East run saw the index improve $25,000 to $3.99 million.

LR1

MEG LR1s also saw their freight level unmoved this week. The TC5 55kt MEG/Japan index hovered around WS180.

A run west on TC8 65kt MEG/UK-Continent ended the week $57,000 higher at $3.41 million.

On the UK-Continent, LR1 freight stayed dormant this week. The TC16 60kt ARA/West Africa index settled 1.5 points higher at WS149.

MR freight in the MEG climbed gently at the end of the week. The TC17 35kt MEG/East Africa index ticked up to WS230 (+10).

On the UK-Continent, MR freight crumbled this week. The TC2 37kt ARA/US-Atlantic Coast index was assessed 12.5 points down from last week at WS136. The Baltic TCE for the round-trip dropped 15% to just over $14,000/day.

In the US Gulf, MRs tracked downward this week. The TC14 38kt US Gulf/UK-Continent voyage dipped from WS179 to WS166, dropping the Baltic round-trip TCE for the run from $24,100 to $21,600/day. The Caribbean run on TC21, 38kt US-Gulf/Caribbean, also dropped from domain. Logistics ceased to be “just transport and warehouses” and became a domain of data interoperability. A centralised hub for logistical stakeholders that allows them to easily share information across all government agencies and levels of shipping and transport. The vision of this centralised hub is supported by a variety of programs and services, including:

- ★ Multi-Modal Logistics Parks (MMLPs) that bring all shipping methods together to reduce the number of times packages need to change hands and be transported in different ways.
- ★ Programs that combine the infrastructure of Sagarmala and Dedicated Freight Corridors with data from the internet, thus allowing all transportation systems to work together.
- ★ The movement to introduce digital tolling, GPS tracking requirements and upgrades to port systems creates the infrastructure to allow real-time visibility of all transportation moves.

It is against this evolving logistics infrastructure that real-time tracking finds its full potential.

Real-time container tracking: What it enables, across the board

Real-time tracking is more than location pinging. It is an event-driven visibility layer, triggered by RFID readers and integrated system handoffs. Its benefits ripple across stakeholder groups:

- ★ The benefits of the solution will impact and support all types of stakeholders. Exporting or importing companies will be able to take advantage of “micro windows” for their pick-ups and deliveries, providing more precise Service Level Agreements (SLAs) and reduced margins.
- ★ Customs / Regulators will be able to maintain an audit trail as well as being alerted for anomaly detection (e.g., road deviations from their prescribed route), which will decrease the likelihood of smuggling.
- ★ Logistics Services Carriers / Providers will be able to eliminate idle turnaround time; maximise their fleet usage, optimise their transshipment routing and prevent bottlenecks from developing.
- ★ Real-time yard flow data will allow terminals / ports to schedule their gates and control congestion dynamically based on actual capacity and demand.

In sum: real-time visibility transforms logistics from “fire-fighting mode” to “anticipation mode”.

NLDS & LDB: From vision to national spine

This is where NLDS (NICDC Logistics Data Services Ltd.) becomes a strategic actor. The NLDS, developed as a partnership between NICDIT (Government of India) and NEC (Japan), was created to provide comprehensive real-time visibility of container movement throughout the country (in all EXIM channels).

The LDB, NLDS’s main output, has created an integrated view of port, terminal, CFS, ICD and road corridor data in one dashboard through its various components. The following features are included in the LDB’s design:

- ★ All TEUs can be identified using RFID technology; every TEU has a unique digital address.
- ★ Real-time visibility into the movement of containers in transit is possible, not only within the borders of India, but also for shipping containers between India and overseas.
- ★ Performance benchmarking of all terminals, corridors and actors in the logistics chain creates a “heat map” of the efficiency of the logistics chain.

★ This scalable architecture was designed so that, as of March 2024, it is already providing dwell time, throughput data and container counts for various areas of India.

The evolution is continuing. In late 2025, the upgrade

LDB 2.0 promises to extend its real-time tracking to on-sea container segments and inland truck movement, thereby bridging the “final mile” visibility gap.

The outcome is already measurable: container dwell times at major ports have dropped, predictability for exporters has improved, and the value of data-driven decision levers is real across the sector.

The efficiency cascade: Beyond speed to strategic advantage

Real-time tracking is not a siloed tool; it creates systemic ripple effects across India’s trade competitiveness:

★ Compression of logistics costs as a share of GDP: The target is ~6% as logistics becomes more automated and advanced with technology; decreasing the current distance between high-efficiency nations.

★ Supporting MSMEs and small exporters: The introduction of visibility creates a level playing field where smaller exporters have the same logistics transparency benefits as large corporations.

★ Bringing global supply chains to India: India’s credibility as a reliable node in Just-in-Time networks, particularly in trade routes between Asia-Africa and Europe continues to grow due to increased effectiveness of India’s supply chain infrastructure.

★ Aggregate logistics data as a policy development tool: Aggregate logistics by industry data provides a mechanism for the policymakers to identify bottlenecks, create designs for corridors, and make decisions about investments into logistics infrastructure.

The road ahead: From visibility to intelligence

Today, real-time tracking of containers is a requirement. At present, it’s important to explore the possibilities of integrating emerging technologies such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), Blockchain and Predictive Analytics into the creation of new and innovative products and services.

★ Predicting congestion and risk: Accurately predict the exact place(s) that your container may be delayed or stuck due to congestion.

★ Dynamic route re-planned by smart technology: Reroute your containers using current information (traffic, weather, back-up at terminals).

★ Custody records (transactional) recorded on Blockchain: The confirmation of security who had the control of the items that were maintained/stored as well as that all within control were treated properly by processing actions taken for these items.

★ Detecting anomalies using Machine Learning: Automatically create alerts when containers are out of range/have stalled.

NLDS, with its anchor in LDB, is primed to evolve into not just a visibility engine, but the intelligence layer over India’s logistics fabric.

Conclusion: The unseen backbone in motion

Real-time container tracking is no longer an experimental tool. It is quietly becoming the infrastructural layer over which Indian trade will scale. NLDS and the LDB system are laying down that digital spine, integrating disparate actors into one rhythm, converting opacity into insight, and shifting logistics from a cost center to a strategic asset.

Visibility is necessary for a business, while speed is simply good business with the growth of global trade. The fact that India has embraced real-time tracking technology shows not only modernisation but also shows that India plans on leading instead of being a follower within the global supply chain.

There are statistics to support the statement. Container dwell times at the Major Ports have dropped significantly, predictive capabilities for exporters are enhanced, and all stakeholders are now able to utilise data-driven decision tools that were previously limited in availability and accessibility.

EFC Group & Intermodal Tank Transport

logistics landscape, with the formal unveiling of ITT Logistics India Pvt. Ltd. during a Corporate Trade Meet & Greet held on December 10, 2025, at the Radisson Blu Mumbai International Airport.

With more than 41 years of operational excellence, the EFC Group offers end-to-end multimodal logistics services including transportation, warehousing, container freight operations, reefer terminals and freight forwarding. The Group manages a formidable network of vehicles, catering to FMCG, chemicals, cement, steel, bulk commodities and specialised cargo across India. Its container and reefer terminals, including those at Nhava Sheva, further strengthen its integrated supply chain capabilities.

Mr Matthew Hanafin, Regional Manager, Intermodal Tank Transport

Founded in 1993 in Medellín, Colombia, South America, Intermodal

Mr Matt Caldwell, President & COO, Intermodal Tank Transport

(BTL), the combined entity ranks among the Top 10 ISO tank operators worldwide, with an extensive inventory of T11, T14, electric-heating and food-grade tanks. Through this joint venture, ITT India will significantly expand access to global trade lanes, enhance import-export capabilities, and offer the chemical industry an expanded product and service portfolio.

The launch event was graced by leadership teams including Mr Kalyan Chowdhury, Mr Pramod Kumar Gupta, Mr Pravin Kumar Gupta (EFC Group Directors), Mr Matt Caldwell and Mr Matthew Hanafin (ITT Global Representatives), and Mr Sumit Chakrabarti (Director – Logistics, ITT India). The event received an overwhelming response with participation from leading Indian exporters and importers such as Jubilant Ingrevia, Galaxy

Tank Transport (ITT) is a global logistics entity specialising in the movement of bulk liquids in ISO tank containers through a multimodal combination of road, rail and sea. ITT operates a modern fleet of tank containers and provides services such as tank rental, cleaning, storage and freight forwarding for chemical, food-grade and other liquid cargo.

Following ITT's global merger with Bulktransporter

Baltic Exchange Market Report (12 November 2025)

$789,000 to $677,000.

The MR Atlantic Triangulation Basket TCE went from $35,500/day to $31,800/day by mid-week close.

Handymax

In the Mediterranean, Handymaxes on TC6, 30kt Cross-Mediterranean index didn't budge from WS180 all week and to corresponding Baltic TCE at $20,000/day round-trip.

The TC23 30kt Cross UK-Continent route sunk by 21 points to WS179 where it currently sits with a Baltic round TCE of $21,600/day.

VLCC

The VLCC markets steadied this week on all the Baltic published routes. The rate for the 270,000 mt Middle East Gulf to China trip (TD3C) rose by about 1.5 points at WS125.78 which corresponds to a daily round-trip TCE of $122,676 for the standard Baltic VLCC.

In the Atlantic market, the rate for 260,000 mt West Africa/China (TD15) dipped by about 1.5 points to WS113.50, giving a round voyage TCE of $117,074. The US Gulf to China (TD22) market eased by about $26,000 to $13,722,222 which shows a daily round-trip TCE of a little over $94,300.

Suezmax

In the Suezmax sector, the markets have also steadied except for the Black Sea which has weakened, although remains healthy. The rate for the 130,000 mt Nigeria/UK Continent voyage (TD20) was flat at the WS126 level, which translates into a daily round-trip TCE of about $61,400 while the TD27 route (Guyana to UK Continent basis 130,000mt) remains around the WS125 mark, giving a daily round-trip TCE of about $60,300. The TD6 route of 135,000mt CPC/Augusta had about 15 points clipped to just below WS160, meaning a daily TCE of around $88,500. In the Middle East, the TD23 route of 140,000 mt Middle East Gulf to the Mediterranean (via the Suez Canal) stays hovering around the WS105 level.

Aframax

In the North Sea, the rate for 80,000 mt Cross-UK Continent route (TD7) remains flat around the WS156.5-157 range, giving a daily round-trip TCE of about $69,200 basis Hound Point to Wilhelmshaven.

In the Mediterranean, the rate for 80,000 mt Cross-Mediterranean (TD19) strengthened 23 points to WS206.78, basis Ceyhan to Lavera, that shows a daily round-trip TCE of just over 69,200, with the expectation of a continuing uptick in rates.

Across the Atlantic, the market has turned upwards for the shorter-haul local voyages, while the longer-haul voyage has slipped (for now). The 70,000 mt East Coast Mexico/US Gulf route (TD26) recovered 9 points to just break through the WS200 mark (giving a daily round-trip TCE of a little over $56,100) and the 70,000 mt Covenas/US Gulf route (TD9) has regained almost 5 points to WS194.08 (translating into a daily round-trip TCE of close to $49,700).

The rate for the Transatlantic route of 70,000 mt US Gulf/UK Continent (TD25) has continued to slide, losing 7 points since last Friday to WS197.78, which gives a round-trip TCE basis Houston/Rotterdam of around $55,200 per day.

On the Vancouver exports, TD28 (80,000 mt crude oil Vancouver to China) continued to head lower, losing another $62,500 over the week, with the panelists' assessment now at $2,925,000 while TD29 (80,000 mt crude oil Vancouver to Pacific Area Lightering point off the USWC) has lost a little over 11 points to about WS226.

LNG

The LNG market softened this week, with rates easing across all major routes after the strong gains of the past two months, driven largely by the rebalancing of 2-stroke tonnage in the West.

On the BLNG1 Australia-Japan route, 174k cbm vessels fell $3,400 to $87,000 per day, while 160k cbm ships posted a smaller decline of $400 to $68,600 per day, following the cooling sentiment in the west.

The BLNG2 US Gulf-Continent route saw the steepest correction this week, with 174k cbm rates dropping $16,800 to $115,000 per day. Meanwhile, 160k cbm vessels decreased $12,000 to $78,000 per day, as Atlantic availability improved.

The BLNG3 US Gulf-Japan route also weakened, with 174k cbm earnings down $15,000 to $118,000 per day, while 160k cbm tonnage declined $11,000 to $81,500 per day.

Time charter sentiment strengthen with the six-month rates increasing $2,150 to $42,650 per day, the one-year term rising $2,125 to $43,000 per day, and the three-year period edging up $100 to $55,100 per day.

LPG

The LPG market saw mixed activity this week, with diverging trends between the East and West. In the East, activity remained relatively subdued, leading to downward pressure on rates as sentiment softened and the tonnage list lengthened. Meanwhile, the West experienced a notable uptick in fixing interest, tightening availability and driving rates higher toward the end of the week.

On the BLPG1 Ras Tanura-Chiba route, rates eased slightly, falling $0.75 to $73.00, with the corresponding TCE declining $759 to $61,552 per day as limited demand failed to absorb growing regional tonnage.

The BLPG2 Houston-Flushing route saw improved movement in the week. Rates climbed $4.00 to $71.25, while the TCE jumped $6,188 to $79,873 per day. The BLPG3 Houston-Chiba route followed, with rates rising $7.83 to $129.50, and the TCE increasing $6,335 to $61,495 per day, reflecting a spike in Western activity and increased competition for available vessels.

Container

Maersk and CMA CGM have in recent weeks sent a few of their smaller ships through the Suez as a trial and we expect to see more carriers following as Red Sea transits look to become more commonplace again next year. As we close the second week of December, it has been a fairly quiet week on all of the FBX trade routes; all shippers have moved any seasonal inventories weeks and months earlier. FBX01 (China/East Asia – USA West Coast) decreased by $144 over the week, ending at $1,935. FBX03 (China/East Asia – USA East Coast) increased by $173 in the week, continuing its steady increase of the previous week, closing at $3,107. FBX11 (China/East Asia – North Europe) saw little change on the route, keeping steady, ending the week at $2,467. FBX13 (China/East Asia – Mediterranean) also remained flat at $3,357, $1 less than this time last week.

The BDI moved from 2,727 on December 5, 2025 to 2,694 on December 8 and 2,205 on December 12.
